Considerations for Selection:

- Community Service: Student must show a strong passion and interest in the community and needs to have demonstrated so in a concrete manner. Service can be with school, church, or community organizations.
- Athletics: Student must have participated in an athletic sport during high school through school or community organizations.
- Academic rigor: It is important that students took a challenging academic high school curriculum. The course selection is, therefore, important since it may be indicative of the student's drive, perseverance, ability and desire to succeed.
